

Application for Internship Western Psychological & Counseling Services

Qualifications

Qualified candidates must be doctoral students in counseling or clinical psychology and have psychotherapy and assessment experience. This includes completion of at least 400 adult intervention and assessment hours, and 3 years of graduate training. The AAPI form and instructions for on-line submission are available on the APPIC website. All application materials must be uploaded to AAPI Online by November 16, 2012.

Supervision

Supervision and workshops are central components to the Western training program. The training activities in which interns participate include:

- 2 hours of individual supervision weekly
- 2 hours of professional development weekly
- 1 hour of group supervision monthly
- Other professional development and training activities, as scheduled

Application for Internship

Applications are accepted through November 16th of the academic year prior to internship. Review of applications begins the week following the application deadline. In-person interviews are preferred, and are scheduled to occur during the month of January. In addition to interviewing with psychology staff members, interviewees meet with the current interns to learn about the internship experience.

Western has adopted the internship application, selection and notification policies and procedures prescribed by APPIC standards. All applications are to be submitted via the AAPI online portal and should include:

- Completed APPIC Application for Psychology Internships (AAPI),
- Cover letter describing how you would be a good fit with the internship program at Western Psychological and Counseling Services
- Curriculum vita
- Official transcripts of all graduate education
- Three letters of recommendation, at least two from current or past clinical supervisors

Questions regarding the internship program may be directed to Joni Moon, Psy.D at jonim@westernpsychservices.com

Joni Moon, Psy.D.
Director of Training
Western Psychological and Counseling Services
Plaza 125, Building J
12636 SE Stark
Portland, OR 97233